

Foreword for Special Section on Papers Selected from ISCIT 2004

International Symposium on Communications and Information Technology (ISCIT) was commenced in 2001 at Chaingmai. The objective of ISCIT is to bring together researchers from this region as well as other parts of the world to discuss and exchange experiences with the aim to stimulate and enhance the research and development in the areas related to Communications and Information Technology. It was held in Pattaya, Songkhla and Sapporo in 2002, 2003 and 2004, respectively.

Since the ISCIT 2004 has many scopes in Communications and Information Technology, therefore a new approach in these research fields "Smart Info-Media Systems" was introduced. There were 255 novel papers accepted out of 350 submitted papers.

From the observation of high quality papers presented in ISCIT 2004, we invited the authors to improve their manuscripts to the transactions style and submit to us. Based on the regular review process 6 papers are accepted to published in ECTI-CIT Transactions.

The publishing of this special section can not be success without the following persons whom I must appreciate. First, is to authors whom carefully prepared their manuscripts. Second, is to reviewers for their kindly review and give very good comments. And last but not least to Dr.Chuwong Phongcharoenpanich, executive secretary, for his hard work on coordinating between reviewers and authors.
